BSc: University of Toronto

Prabdeep Panesar joined the Schachar + Crosbie Lab in June 2019 as a Junior Research Assistant for the “Spit for Science” team. She is currently in the process of completing her Bachelor of Science degree in the Specialist Neuroscience program with Co-op at the University of Toronto. Throughout her undergrad she has explored many fields of research including infantile amnesia, morality across political spectrums, hematological malignancies, and neuropsychiatric disorders. She is excited to be continuing her journey at the Schachar + Crosbie Lab with a focus on understanding executive function in ASD and ADHD children/youth.
