HBSc: University of Toronto

Eisha Amjad joined the Schachar-Crosbie Lab in January 2020 as a Co-op Research Student. She is currently an undergraduate student at the University of Toronto, Scarborough pursuing an Honours Bachelor of Science, with a Double Major in Molecular Biology, Immunology & Disease and Population Health Science. Eisha has a great passion for working with children and is excited to learn about the phenotypes in neuropsychiatric disorders in children and youth. Eisha feels honoured to be a part of such a talented team!
